

The Datos Insights Insurance CIO Council is a curated knowledge-sharing community of top technology leaders from hundreds of North American property/casualty and life/annuity/benefits insurers.

About the Council

The Datos Insights Insurance CIO Council is a free, moderated, knowledge-sharing group for senior insurance technology executives, including chief information officers and chief technology officers.

Council members regularly participate in research studies on critical insurance topics to share insights and expertise on technology priorities and key investment areas. They receive complimentary copies of all research they contribute to.

This Council is the largest knowledge-sharing community in the insurance industry, giving its members a chance to learn from their peers' experiences.

Who Can Participate?

Membership is open to technology leaders at North American insurance companies, including both Datos Insights clients and non-clients. Only current insurer employees are eligible for membership. The Council is not open to solution providers.

Members comprise a cross-section of the insurance industry, with a diverse array of company sizes, lines of business, and strategic focuses represented.

Research Council members enjoy benefits such as:

- Complimentary access to select reports
- Invitations to participate in relevant executive research
- Proctored one-on-one conversations with other Executive Council members on topics of common interest

About Membership

Membership in the Insurance CIO Council includes:

- CIO Council Study Participation
CIO Council members are invited to participate in periodic studies on key insurance topics such as emerging technology, capabilities benchmarking, budgets, and strategic focuses. All study participants receive complimentary copies of analysis and insights regardless of client status.
- In-Person Annual CIO Council Meeting
Our annual in-person meeting includes exclusive presentations of new research, panel discussions featuring CIO leaders, keynote presentations from industry experts, and moderated peer-to-peer conversations on key topics.
- Special Interest Group Meetings
These invitation-only meetings center on critical issues in insurance technology, including innovation, enterprise architecture, Agile methodology, and line-of-business focus. Meetings are held in person at the Annual CIO Council Meeting in the spring of each year and virtually in the fall of each year.

Members are asked to participate in at least one annual survey to maintain membership in good standing. Datos Insights client members may participate in any number of Special Interest Group meetings; non-clients may participate in up to two meetings annually.
